FOURTEEN ARRESTS AT LAWRENCE THIS MORNING

More Than 3000 Strikers Have Returned to Work

(Special to The Herald)

Lawrence, Mass., March 6.—There were fourteen arrests of striking mill operatives and their sympathizers this morning, the majority of the arrests being for minor offenses. Many more operatives returned to work this morning, and mill owners stated that since Monday upwards of three thousand of the striking operatives have resumed work in the various mills.

1500 Republicans from all parts of State Gather at Concord and Honor the President

The largest political gathering ever held in Concord, was on Tuesday when the Taft republicans gathered to support his re-election and to show that Governor Bass could not promise the state to Col. Roosevelt and deliver the goods. In the gathering were many who have been prominently connected with Governor Bass, but who disagree with him in this matter.

The meeting was held in Phoenix hall and there were present 1500 republicans, and they represented every part of the state. Special trains were run from Manchester and Nashua and there was a delegation of forty from this city, and even the extreme north country was represented. National Committeeman F. W. Estabrook opened the meeting with a short address.

Mr. Estabrook named Hon. Charles R. Corning of Concord as chairman, who announced the following officers of the day, the vice presidents taking seats on the platform: President, Charles R. Corning; vice presidents, Walter M. Parker, Manchester; Sherman E. Burroughs, Manchester; George B. French, Nashua; William Parker Straw, Manchester; Ellisha R. Brown, Dover; Roland A. Spaulding, Rochester; John T. Busiel, La-

BIG BATTLESHIP BARELY ESCAPES GOING TO BOTTOM

Somebody Broke Sea Valve On the New Hampshire

(Special to The Herald)

New York, March 6.—It has just leaked out that the battleship New Hampshire had a narrow escape from being sunk on Monday as she was leaving the dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard. The dock had been flooded and the battleship was about to be towed out into the stream, three tugs having been made fast to her, when it was discovered that one of her sea valves had been broken and water was pouring into the battleship at a lively rate.

She was quickly redocked and a catastrophe averted. An inquiry will be held as to the cause of the accident.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Washington, March 5.—Forecast for northern New England—Fair Wednesday and Thursday, rising temperature; light variable winds.

Local forecast for Portsmouth and vicinity—Fair Wednesday and Thursday, with somewhat higher temperature; light to moderate easterly winds.

LOCAL SALOONS MUST CLOSE NEXT TUESDAY

License Commissioners Issue Statement to That Effect

The board of License Commissioners say that the saloons must close on Tuesday next when the special election will be held to elect delegates to the Constitutional convention and have issued the following circular for the guidance of all holders of liquor licenses throughout the state.

To Licensees:
Chapter 187, Session Laws 1911, contains the following provision: "That at the election in the several towns of this state to be held on the second Tuesday of March, 1912, delegates to a convention to revise the constitution of this state shall be chosen."

The Attorney General informs us that in his opinion this day, March 12, has been, by the above provision, made a "day of general election", and hence all regulations of the license law applicable to such days apply to this.

KITTERY POINT

What Is Happening in the Harbor Town

John P. Brooks, Asst. Keeper of Walsback lighthouse, came in on Tuesday for a short visit ashore.

A. P. Palmer of Peabody, Mass., was in town Tuesday on business.

An association was formed yesterday in Boston for the enforcement of the law against the nuisance of unmuffled motor boats, and it would seem to be about time something of the sort was undertaken here. It is a mighty poor advertisement for Portsmouth and vicinity as a summer resort, when the news is heralded over the country that William Dean Howells has actually been driven from town by the intolerable and wholly unnecessary racket made at all hours of the day and night, by boats which might be silenced by the expenditure of a very small sum on the part of the owner.

Mrs. Louis Shaw of Kittery visited various friends in town on Tuesday.

Miss Helen Manson is making an extended visit to friends in Boston.

The tug "Powow" of Newburyport, arrived here early Tuesday morning to tow a loaded coal barge to that city.

Walter DeLaney of Dover was a business visitor in town on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Perley Tobey have returned from a visit to relatives in Boston.

Miss Effie Manson of Ogunquit, Me., is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Manson.

Mrs. John H. Parrott has returned from a week's visit to her daughter in Springfield.

Don't forget the unique "Rubber Social" at the Free Baptist church, on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Thomas Abrams of Kittery, visited friends here on Monday.

Mrs. L. E. Coty was the guest of Mrs. Sarah Richardson of Kittery on Tuesday.

The Order of the Golden Cross will hold a meeting at their hall on Thursday evening next.

Mrs. Frank Blake visited friends in Kittery on Monday.

William Symonds continues to be confined to his home by illness.

William Tobey was called to Manchester, N. H. on Tuesday by the serious illness of his father, Jesse Tobey.

Many would-be supporters of President Taft in this vicinity, hope that he will take the opportunity of his proposed visit to New Hampshire to clear the air once for all in regard to the threatened closing of the Portsmouth Navy Yard. A point blank reputation of this absurd scheme of virtually giving away the best navy yard on the coast "in the interest of economy," could not fail to be of much advantage to the President in this entire section.

"THE DEEP PURPLE"

If you want to get a realistic picture of how the "badger game" is commonly worked don't fail to see "The Deep Purple," the Armstrong-Mizner powerful play of the great white way, which enters upon the third week of its engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, on next Monday. The play is one of the greatest, serious and realistic plays of its kind seen in Boston for a long time. In fact it is a classic in its class, which thrills you from the very rise of the curtain. It presents four acts of modern New York city life that makes you feel as if you were in the midst of the entire proceedings, and exposes in a vivid manner the methods adopted by New York thieves in their effort to work the "badger game" on a western mining engineer. If you would have an idea of how William J. Burns, the greatest detective in America today who says: "The Deep Purple" is the most accurate picture study of criminals that I have ever seen."

This in itself is sufficient cause for consideration. Throughout the entire plot of the play, which by the way is balked by the resourcefulness and courage of the engineer and the wit of Kate Fallon, a reformed thief runs a delicate love story. In short the play is a bit of real life transplanted to the stage that should easily interest the average theatre-goer who is unfamiliar with how the underworld exists.

The Liebler Company, managers, have provided the play with a cast of unusual excellence including Adu Dwyer, Violet Fleming, Rosina Henley, W. J. Ferguson, Sidney Booth, Will Beach, W. A. Norton, Robert Cain and other well known favorites.

The play is booked for a limited engagement and it is very likely that Boston will be the only New England city that the play will be seen. Send in your order for seats now. Prices 25 cents to $2.00, with plenty of good orchestra seats for $1.00 and $1.50.

FRESH HORSES FOR SALE.

Thomas Murphy, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Horace Seymour, has returned to his home in Lawrence, Mass.

"George Bohang Only Real Amateur Athlete in New York," Says Baltimore Man

GEORGE BOHANG

New York, March 6.—Athletic circles in this city have been stirred by the statement made in Baltimore recently by a man formerly connected with one of the New York clubs that "George Bohang, the champion middle distance runner, is the only star athlete in any of the big Gotham clubs who is a bona fide amateur." In speaking of the amateur standing of some of the men who have been prominent in the athletic world for years the person who made the statement printed above said that it was not a secret that the men who were the best performers had received money for their work at different times and that the Amateur Athletic union officials were cognizant of the fact, though unable to do anything because of a lack of proof and an ever readiness on the part of the men accused to produce evidence of their innocence when charges of a professional nature were brought. It was his opinion that there is not a man around New York at present engaged in championship athletic contests who at one time or another in his career has not been guilty of professionalism in its real sense. It was said of Bohang in the course of the discussion that even when taking trips to compete in a meet he invariably would accept not a cent more than his bare expenses.

Science in Fishing.

In taking big catches of haddock if the insides are looked into there will be seen great quantities of herring eggs. The fisherman before casting his lines for haddock greases his hand and tries for herring spawn, for where he finds herring eggs there great numbers of haddock are sure to be.

Simple Allegory.

A Tear said to the Smile: "Mamma is gone; let us have a race." They started. Sometime the Tear was ahead; then again little Smile appeared. At last the Tear went in full speed, and had nearly won—but there, Smile saw mamma in the door—and won the race.

Device for Securing Quiet.

To give quiet to dwellers in noisier streets an English builder has simply used windows with double glazing. In sick rooms, lecture rooms and others the sound of street cars and the rumble of wagons were greatly diminished and the sound of voices was made imperceptible.

Dyspepsia Tablets for One.

"Select a good-hearted cabbage," begins a writer of cooking receipts. Alas! that a good-hearted cabbage has never come our way. Those who have had any dealings with have treated us cruelly, very cruelly, indeed.—Boston Transcript.

Employed a Substitute.

Two small city boys, visiting the country, were afraid of a horse which was quietly grazing near. They made no movement toward driving the horse away, but it was evident that they desired its absence. At last another boy hove in sight. "Oh, Billy," one of the waiting boys called to him, "just throw a stone at that horse, will you? We're Band of Mercy, and we can't."

Greek Military Training.

The ancient Greeks managed to train not only their troops but the whole nation by offering liberal prizes for proficiency in all kinds of bodily exercise, such as: running, leaping, lifting, spear throwing and wrestling. At a distance of sixty yards their spearmen could hit a target with unflinching certainty.

Nature's Gentle Hand.

Nature gives to every time and season some beauties of its own; and from morning to night, as from the cradle to the grave, is but a succession of changes so gentle and easy that we scarcely mark their progress.—Charles Dickens.

Actual Salesmanship.

A man may make $25 a day in his regular business, and not think much about it, but he always feels like a leading financier when he sells the old bottles in the cellar for 47 cents.—Ohio State Journal.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

NOW FOR HOT MUFFINS.

THOSE who have tasted English hospitality will never forget the hot muffins that are so often a part of the afternoon tea. Muffins are of many kinds, but the British muffin is an institution peculiar to the British housewife.

However, if the American cook wishes to try them, here is a recipe said to be successful:

Muffins For Anglomaniacs.

English Muffins.—Take a quart of flour, a half teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, generous spoonfuls, one and a quarter pints of milk.

Sift together flour, sugar, salt and powder; add the milk and mix into a smooth batter a trifle stiffer than for griddle cakes.

Have the griddle heated all over, grease it and lay on muffin rings. Half fill them and when risen well up to the top of the rings turn over gently with a cake turner. They should not be too brown, just a buff color. When they are all cooked, open in half, toast delicately, butter them well, serve in folded napkin, piled high and very hot.

Health Flour Muffins.

Graham Muffins.—Combine one cup of graham flour, one cup of flour, one-quarter cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of baking powder, all of which must be sifted. To these add gradually one cup of milk, one egg well beaten and a tablespoonful of melted butter.

These should be baked in a hot oven in buttered gem pans for twenty-five minutes.

Rye muffins may be made from this recipe by substituting rye meal for the graham flour.

Rice Muffins.—Take two cupfuls of cold boiled rice, a pint of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, three eggs, a half pint of milk and one and a half teaspoonfuls of sugar.

Pour the milk on the rice, freeing it from lumps, and add the eggs, which should have been well beaten. Sift together the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder and add to the rice and milk.

Mix into a smooth firm batter. Pour into greased muffin pans, making each about two-thirds full, and bake for a quarter of an hour.

Finding a Silver Spoon.

The passengers on an Atlantic liner were at dinner when one of them—he was, by the way, an amateur conjurer and had given a "turn" in the saloon the previous evening—observed a lady present take up a handsome sugar spoon and hide it up her sleeve. He waited till dinner was nearly over, then rose and addressed the company.

He had, he said, remembered another little trick, which he proposed to perform in amplification of his program of the evening before. Going up to the captain, he took from the table a spoon similar to that which the lady had hidden.

"You will see, ladies and gentlemen, I take this spoon and place it in the captain's sleeve."

He did so, bidding the captain grasp the sleeve tightly at the wrist with his disengaged hand.

"Now," he continued, "I will produce the spoon from Mrs. Blank's sleeve."

And, approaching the souvenier hunter, he dexterously did so. The delinquent, crimson with shame and vexation, promptly left the saloon for the solitude of her own stateroom.

Marketing in France.

In France the housewife does very little of the marketing. It is left to the servants. There the servants do the bargaining. If potatoes are 10 cents per pound and the girl can get them from some market woman for 8 cents she reasons that the mistress should not profit by the bargaining, but that she herself should have the difference. The regular price of the potatoes being 10 cents, the servant marks them down in her book at that price and pockets the difference. This is one of the peculiarities of the French method of keeping house, and it has been found a real aid in keeping servants. The housewives are aware of what is taking place, but they are satisfied to pay the regular market prices. It is the bargaining of the servants which gets them an extra allowance, but as long as the entrees are up to the standard the housewife does not complain.—Boston Herald.

His Trophies.

Mikey and Pat had been at school together, but had drifted apart in after life. They met one day, and the conversation turned on athletics.

"Did you ever meet my brother Dennis?" asked Pat. "He won a gold medal in a Marathon race."

"Bedad," replied Mike, "sure, and that's fine! But did I ever tell you about my uncle at Ballythomas?"

Pat agreed that he could not call the gent to mind.

"Well," said Mike, "he's got a gold medal for five miles and one for ten miles; a silver medal for swimming, two cups for wrestling and a lot of badges for boxing and cycling."

"Begorra," said Pat, "he must be a great athlete, indeed!"

"Bedad," came the reply, "and you are wrong! He keeps the pawnshop!"—London Telegraph.

FOR PORTSMOUTH

and PORTSMOUTH'S

INTERESTS

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1912.

Subscribers of the local telephone exchange will be greatly pleased when a new telephone book is issued. One can hardly call a number now, without having the operator say, "That number has been changed to—". This is very pleasing intelligence, especially if one is in a hurry.

Gov. Bass of New Hampshire has discovered that by no means all of the men who were his staunch supporters in his campaign for the governorship, agree with him that the country needs again the service of the colonel as president. He will have to hustle hard if he is to prove his statement that there is a great popular demand for the Rough Rider.

Because of the lack of coal, scores of industries are closing down in all parts of the United Kingdom. One railroad has announced the withdrawal of 345 passenger trains. Tinplate mills in Wales are closing rapidly. 600 mills will be idle within a few days and 40,000 men out of work. Only two small non-union mines in entire country are still at work. Railroads have begun commandeering all coal shipments. Many have only supply sufficient to last until middle of week. Executive committee of Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants has met to consider suggestion for a general strike in sympathy with miners, and demands that railway employees refuse to handle trains used to send troops to districts where strike is in progress. Premier Asquith says: "Strike must be settled within next week at all costs."

The cost of living is up to stay according to Mr. Roberts, the director of the mint who says: "As for truetra note that while food has been going up, manufactured products have been going down. Effect of increased gold production has been largely exaggerated. Much of the new gold has gone to countries that formerly used silver or paper. In last four years Brazil, which had an irredeemable paper currency, has taken $100,000,000 gold. Within ten years Argentina has accumulated $250,000,000, Japan $50,000,000 and Mexico $30,000,000. India in ten years has withdrawn $400,000,000 into its hoards, taking last year $77,784,000. All this gold does not affect prices in great commercial countries, which normally require an increasing amount of gold. Percentage of gold increase is really showing a loss, not a gain. No great surprises in gold discoveries are now likely. Food price have risen because we have given away our rich continent, with fewer trees, acres and animals now in proportion to population; and also our personal habits have changed. High cost of living is offset by higher wages. Interest on capital has not risen because of real competition that exists between capital."

Concerning the laws in favor of women in suffrage states, the report recently printed by the American Association of Labor Legislation, giving a review of labor legislation for the year 1911, is intensely interesting to those who have been laboring under the delusion that votes for women means anything for the working women. Page 144 of the report gives the information that the eight hour bill, limiting the hours in which women could work, was lost in Colorado last winter. This in the paradise of the suffragists. Page 147 reports that a law was enacted in Utah restricting the hours of woman's labor to nine hours a day. This law was passed at last year's session of the legislature. Nine hours a working day for women, these women have voted for. In these many years, Wyoming and Idaho, suffrage states, have no law restricting the hours of labor for women. California has an eight hour law for women, but it was passed before the suffrage was extended to women. Washington has a similar law, passed also before women had the ballot in that state. Contrast the legislation of the suffrage states for the protection of women with the law passed by the Massachusetts Legislature last year, which forbids the employment of women two weeks before or four weeks after child birth. This is the first state in the Union to enact such a law, and it is the high water mark of legislative protection for women.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS.

There would be less anxiety in the life of a base ball manager if good pitchers were as easily discovered as candidates for high political office.

It will be some months before anybody comes forward with a frank declaration that he would like to be Vice President of the United States.

Canada seems to be anxious and a little disgruntled for fear that Peary, because of his discoveries in the Arctic, will grab a whole lot of the islands there. Don't worry. Keep your old icebergs.

Four standing committees of the house have been commissioned to investigate the money trust. If the octopus isn't thoroughly frightened out of its boots now it is doubtful if it ever will be.

Lillian Russell says that, while love in a cottage sounds nice, she will not be contented with anything less than a palace and a man with a salary of at least $50,000. Nothing small about Lillian.

Germany evidently believes in being prepared to compel peace even if she has to fight to do it. The twelfth dreadnaught, with 24,000 tonnage and costing the immense sum of $11,883,750, has recently been launched.

If every citizen who has cheered the speeches of T. R. or shaken hands with him should rally to his standard, the result would be overwhelming. But the American public is fickle.

It is reported that whisky is sold for 10 cents a glass in Baltimore. This will enable the bars to compete with the ice cream soda fountains during the coming conventions.

Mr. Bryan has developed almost versatility enough to enable him to assume the role of disinterested spectator.

At all events, the Wilson-Watterson controversy may be passed along without the expense of a formal investigation.

Owing to the pressure by political interests there will probably be less golf played this summer than usual.

A progressive is sometimes compelled by circumstances to remain stationary for a time.

Baltimore, politically speaking, will be America's most famous summer resort this year.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The Spring Circus. Spring is in our midst. It rustles its fledged wings within our bosom, and though the wrinkled face of winter still haunts our vision, the seasons crouch for a somersault that will land us feet first in the midst of spring. With spring comes the circus, and that brings us to the prevailing impression that 1912 is going to be a banner year for circuses. For in what sense can a street parade of wild animals compare with the spectacle of a celebrated hunter of African beasts turning backward springs backward and forward without touching the ground at any visible point? Will not the best effort of the late P. T. Barnum fade from memory when the grandstands behold three rings filled with banana tumblers, gillfords, mudlocks and referendums, snapping and snarling in a curious game of "button, button—who's got the campaign button? It will. But, as America's most level-headed entertainment dispenser once remarked, "The dear public loves to be humbugged."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Training Camp Season.

Now come the days of waxing interest in the base ball situation. Players are going to their training camps. Managers are announcing their confident expectation of winning pennants. Recruits from the minor leagues and the bush leagues and the back lots are reporting for duty full of faith in their ability to land berths and to smash records and to become the future Ty Cobbs and Hans Wagners and Walter Johnsons of the great American game. A few of the players are negotiating for increases in salary. Meanwhile the public is waiting with increasing impatience for the first sound of the gong that will start another season and provide excitement and entertainment for a vast multitude of people until the frost again nips the leaves.

The preliminaries of a base ball season are now much different from what they were twenty years ago. Everything is on a more elaborate scale. There are many more players on the rosters, and the training trips are conducted at great expense and with a certain formality that benefits the position of the game before the public. In the old days players would report for duty a few days before the season opened, do a little practice on the home grounds, perhaps play half a dozen exhibition games and then start the season, with the result usually that nearly every member of the team was sore and lame for some time after the official beginning. It was the exceptional club that had a trainer. There were no scouts then to scour the country and watch the training camps of other teams to look for likely material among the possible "cast-offs" not wanted by rival managers. There were no daily reports from the distant cities where the aspirants for pennant honors were putting themselves in shape for the season's work. There were then, as now, occasional wars and rumors of wars between leagues, and now and again mushroom organizations were formed to last a few weeks and then shrivel under the sun of competition. Base ball was not organized then as highly as it is today and did not involve one-tenth of the amount of capital now invested. There were no concrete grandstands. There were no luxurious club quarters, no dressing rooms for visiting players.

But with all the changes base ball remains the same game, with a few variations in the style of playing and a few changes in the rules. It makes its appeal to the public in just the same way, on the basis of competition between cities represented by men gathered from all quarters and likely to be shifted any day from club to club. But the public's loyalty to the city's representative in the league is superior to all personal considerations. Without this spirit of sense of competition, on the part of the people base ball would not survive another season. As long as the patrons of the game believe that there is good faith on the part of the local management and that each club is sincerely endeavoring to develop itself and improve its standing they will attend the games and cheer the home team when it wins and feel distressed when it loses. Just at present the Washington public is keenly interested in the process of developing a club from almost new material after a long series of experiments in building up with experienced players who have reached or passed their prime. Until the bell rings for the first game the performances of the Nationals will rival the doings of the politicians in point of public attention and concern.—Washington Star.

What Waked Up China?

Two returned missionaries from China gave differing, but not necessarily conflicting, views of the causes of the Chinese revolution. One of the clergymen thinks the cause were largely religious and ethical, while the other holds them to have been mainly economic. The stream of graduates of Christian schools in China flowing back annually for the past fifty years into the body politic has, in the opinion of one mission ary, been the chief means of preparing the people for the change from monarchy to republic. His brother missionary sees in the 4,500 representatives of foreign trade in China in the 200 foreign consuls scattered around the country and in the rapid increase in the number of daily newspapers, the principal cause of the revolution.—Boston Globe.

The Way It Is Done in Virginia. I desire to announce to my friends and kinfolk that, assisted by Dr. Wailling and a miscellaneous assemblage of elderly dames, the first dubar ever held west of the Alleghenies was brought to a happy termination and the enthusiastic cheers of the new subject of our realm this morning. Mother and daughter are doing well. I may pull through. Sid Wheeler.—Southwest Times.

Showing Chinese Advancement.

Dr. Mary Stone, a Chinese girl, whose family dates back more than 2,000 years, is the first woman named in her family tree. This pedigree is contained in 12 large volumes and gives the history of the family for more than 2,000 years. Other women, daughters and wives, are designated by numbers. Dr. Stone was reared by missionaries and chose to become a physician.

Novelty Brings Profits.

A New York grocer has combined an advertising novelty and a source of profit in a butter churn, which is in almost constant operation in his store. The churn is driven by a small electric motor and the scheme is to sell a patron a quantity of cream and then, for a small charge, churn it into butter. The operation takes but a few minutes.

Good Profit in Begging.

The streets of London never fail to attract the professional beggar and never disappoint him. The Mendicity society tells us that a beggar can earn more than the wages of the average working man, and that "it is probably no exaggeration to say that well over £100,000 ($500,000) is given away haphazard to beggars in the streets of London every year."

Type of Great Man.

The greatest man is he who chooses the right with an invincible resolution; who resists the forest temptations from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is the calmest in storms and whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God, is the most unflinching.—Channing.

The Rialto.

The architect of the famous Rialto bridge in Venice was Antonio da Ponte. The bridge is a single arch, 90 feet in length, and is exceedingly strong and graceful. It is crossed by means of ascending and descending steps, while on the top are two ranges of shops, dividing the structure into three parallel streets.

Money in Gathering Gum.

A gum hunter gathered 1,300 pounds of spruce gum the last summer in the Adirondack mountains. The most he ever secured in a single day was 30 pounds. His profits may be estimated when it is known that any druggist will gladly pay $1.50 a pound for the gum.

Unprofitable Sport.

"Possums are abundant around Waltham," says the Luenenburg Tribune, "but a man in that neighborhood went out hunting the other night, and after his dogs got after some thing he cut down two trees and finally ran his own cat into the dining room at his own home."

Can't Get Away From Them.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating; you can't get away from that," says an advertisement. And the Manhattan Mercury adds: "There are a lot more equally trite bits of wisdom that it seems impossible to get away from."—Kansas City Star.

Those Bird Men.

Country Cousin—Blamed if this ain't the funnest I ever saw fire flies when they were snow on the ground. City Relative—These are not fireflies. They are cigarette butts falling from the aeroplanes.—Puck.

Arranging Flowers.

When arranging cut flowers in a bowl, pour a tableglassful of water into the bowl. Put most of the flowers into the glass. This makes a graceful bunch, and is especially practical when blooms are scarce.—Suburban Life.

Consider This.

I went to church to worship and I found a truth; I took it home with me, I took it to my office, it was with me wherever I went, and in all that week I was not afraid. I was not ashamed.—The Universalist Leader.

Never.

If all women were beautiful and none of them ever grew old a married man's wife would never insist on taking him out to spend the evening anywhere.

New Invention for Coin Purse.

Keeping the flap closed by a rubber cord, a Washington inventor claims to have devised a coin purse that is safer than the usual forms.

China's Iron Ore Deposits.

China has the greatest deposits of iron ore in the world and is beginning to export pig iron.

Important Ocean "Crop."

When the herring season is at its height about 7,000 miles of net are set nightly in the North sea.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Elliot, Maine, March 5, 1912.

Editor Herald:—

The Town of Elliot for the last two years has had one Road Commissioner, and has raised $1000 for two years to be expended on roads and bridges. The Citizens of the Town thought they would get better roads by putting in one commissioner and raising more money.

Under the system of three Commissioners, the Town raised $3000 for two years, and that amount was not all expended; the roads being in better condition than they are today.

The Town could have had $1600 in the treasury, and had better roads. How can the Town get out of debt.

EDISONIAN THEATRE

Freeman's Hall.
Manager Sidney of the Edisonian theatre wishes to announce the coming of something new in the way of amusement for Thursday, Friday and Saturday with matinees each day.

"The Purple Widow," with Billy Carlton, which is considered one of the best musical farce comedies on the road. The cast consists of clever principals, funny comedians, pretty girls who know how to sing and dance well in the various musical numbers. This engagement is for three days only, and judging from reports from other cities, capacity business can be expected. It is said that the early bird gets the pick of the perch, secure seats early. Regardless of this mammoth production the price of admission will remain the same.

Some of our feature pictures for Wednesday and Thursday are "The days of six nations" in two reels, a very good educational picture of Indian war drama.

"Just a bad kid," a great comedy picture.

The war of Tripoli, an interesting historical picture.

The same vaudeville will be presented today.

Dancing as usual and the latest in illustrated songs.

LEVEQUE HELD FOR UPPER COURT

Alfred Leveque, who was arrested in Pawtucket for breaking and entering the Kingman jewelry store in Newmarket, was taken to Newmarket on Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Shaw and arraigned. He entered a plea of guilty and was held in $500 bonds for the April term of court. In default of bail he was committed to jail.

IT IS STUFFED WITH STRAW.

In writing on "Suffrage and its effects on the Presidential Vote," under date of February 18th, Ida Harper, a suffrage leader, takes the various presidential candidates to task because none of them seem to look with favor upon the woman suffrage movement. "The situation on the eve of a presidential campaign is that the suffragists can find no real ground on which to support Taft's candidacy, should they wish to do so. An occurrence of a few days ago when he was the guest of the league of Republican state clubs meeting in Washington has aroused them to a keen sense of watchfulness. In the leading speech of Senator Rott, throwing down the gauntlet to those called progressives, he said:

"Suppose the issue is the initiative and referendum, women suffrage and the destruction of the independence of the judicial branch of our government ***** need we fear a vote of confidence for the party?"

"If any such dastardly attempt as this shall receive even the silent assent of President Taft and the Republican Party, it will be high time for the National Suffrage Association to forsake its rigid policy of non-partisanship and notify its tens of thousands of members throughout the country to work for the defeat of candidate and party," says Mrs. Harper.

"The reference of Mrs. Harper to the strength of the National Suffrage Association, and the implied threat to call out the 'reserves' to defeat the party that will not declare for suffrage," said Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, "is merely a bluff, intended to scare some of the presidential candidates into a declaration in favor of woman suffrage."

"The National American Woman Suffrage Association," said Mrs. Dodge, "according to an official statement of their treasurer, Jessie Ashley, exerts no influence at all among the women of this country."

"Under date of July 7th last, Miss Ashley sent out an appeal for funds. The letter written on the official stationery of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, and signed by Jessie Ashley. After comparing the amounts spent by the English suffragettes with that spent by the National Suffrage Association, Miss Ashley makes this extremely interesting admission:

"There were last year over 75,000 organized suffragists in this country, but our income from dues is only $2,000. One dollar a year from each organized suffragist would give us the income we are asking for, namely $75,000."

"When the National American Woman's Suffrage Association admits that there are but 75,000 organized suffragists in its country, they place the number at a very high figure. But according to the admission of the National Treasurer, these 75,000 organized suffragists are not sufficiently interested in the National Suffrage Association to contribute but more than two and a half fraction cents a year to the cause."

OYSTERS RODE IN TAXICABS

They Were From France and New York Frenchmen Craved Them for Dinner.

B. L. Bowles is an express agent of unusual patience. He spent the last day of the year cold, but hopeful, on the French line pier, answering telephone calls from three French restaurants, and merely smiling when, for the thirty-fifth time, a chef asked about "the oyster."

"Please, La Lorraine, where is he with the oyster?" said the impatient chef.

"She is still down the bay," said Bowles. "I think she will be here before six."

"What is it the diners will do if the oysters do not come?"

When the chefs called up again Mr. Bowles had not time to answer. He was busy with the customs officials arranging for the release of the oysters, which were in sacks.

"Are these things brought here for breeding purposes?" asked the inspector.

"No," said Bowles. "They are French oysters, called 'marooned' for eating purposes. There are about two hundred Frenchmen in this town who want to eat these oysters tonight with their New Year's dinner. I've got 200 dozen of them; and three taxicabs are ready to take them to the restaurant."

At 7:25 p. m. when the taxicabs had gone north with the oysters, Mr. Bowles went into a booth and talked to the three chefs at once. The thanks that came simultaneously over the wire were too profuse and muddled to permit of translation.—New York Tribune.

Novel Way to Rest.

It seems imperative for a certain member of the family to rest an hour after the noon meal each day. The weather had grown mild, and to draw the shades so as to exclude the light kept out the air also, so the sister lost much of its refreshing quality.

A thick pad of absorbent gauze, some eight inches long and four inches wide was fastened with an elastic band just tight enough to hold the pad securely. This was slipped into place over the eyes.

Days when the eyes burned or ached a compress wet with cool salt and water was placed under the pad, and eyes and nerves were soothed at the same time. By the last named means the eyes were strengthened and the crow's feet indicative of eye strain were ironed out.—Harper's Bazar.

Dead Slang.

Is there anything so dead as dead slang? It must be quite fresh, or it offends the nostrils. And no one should talk slang without the assurance that it is both infantile and immortal. John Galsworthy is modern. And in "The Man of Property" he produces the slang expression of the 'eighties. "A daverly woman." It is a term of contempt for a woman. But is there any one born in the eighties who could explain that slang term, or remembers it? You must get your slang fresh—there is little of it that stands the time's preservation.

There was a visitation to the Washington Royal Arch chapter on Tuesday evening. The Grand High Priest was present.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE TOOTHsome CRAB.
This popularity of crab meat depends so much on the way that it is served that it is not to be wondered at that inland cooks who cannot avail themselves of the shellfish fresh from the sea are wary of trying any but the plainest ways of cooking crab.

Before cooking, the sand bags and waste from the sides should be pulled off and the fish washed and dried. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in crumbs and then in egg and fry in hot lard.

For Boiling.
Boiled Crabs.—Crabs which are to be boiled should be heavy and have stiff joints. They should be moderate in size. To kill them, plunge them head first in boiling water. Cook for fifteen minutes. Then take off the outside shell and the waste. Rinse and serve on a platter.

Scalloped Crabs.—Remove the meat from the shell, mince and mix with cream sauce. Season and return this mixture to the shells or put in scallop shells. Cover with butter and cracker crumbs and bake until brown.

For Lenten Luncheons.
A salad and a soufflé will make excellent items on the Lenten luncheon bill are given:

Crab Salad.—Peel and scoop out the inside of six ripe hollowed tomatoes. Remove the meat from six or eight crabs, according to size. At serving time mix lightly with mayonnaise dressing which has been delicately flavored with tarragon vinegar, and put into the tomato cups. Serve on lettuce.

Crab Soufflé.—Make one pint of rich cream sauce, add the yolks of three eggs and beat well together. Add a dash of cayenne, a cupful of grated dairy cheese and one pint of finely picked crab meat.

Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, pour into a baking dish and bake in a quick oven.

Serve when taken from the oven before it can fall.

Chief Hett and His Braves Lose Out

Chief Hett and his braves from the Accounting Office were nicely trimmed by the Hull Division Clerks at the Arcade alleys last night. Had Chief Hett maintained a recent rumored high average and had Brave Bishop made as good a showing as in a previous ten string match, things might have been different. The defeated team won the last two strings, but the first string put the game on ice for the Hull Division and they lay back in the last two, so as to give the Accounting Office courage to come back for another match.

CITY NEWS

The veteran firemen appear to be somewhat put out with the members of the press due to the fact that one or two of their numbers were overlooked in the account of the fire early Monday morning at the Commercial House. They say these men actually saved lives.

This paper was not aware that any lives were endangered at this fire, but is sorry that any hero of the veteran association should have risked his life to save other and not be given credit for his bold daring work among the smoke and flames. The writer realizes that the association is full of brave men who are always on their job when the alarm sounds at all hours and who have risked life and limb to save property ever since they donned the red shirt.

We simply apologize for failure to hand out credit to hero Jim and others and state that the same will not occur again.

Liquor dealers of this city have been on the guess as to whether or not they would be obliged to suspend business on Tuesday, March 12 on account of the special election. All doubt has been set aside by the circulated issued by the board and printed in this edition of the Herald.

The bidding for furnishing stores for ships at the navy yard for the next quarter has been very lively among the local business men. It is understood that the firm of J. H. Hobbs and company cleaned up everything for the month of April, May and June and the only man to get in on the bids was Arthur Deedes, who sells what fruit is needed for that period.

There is a lively three cornered contest for the position of Exalted Ruler of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks.

The candidates for the position are James H. McCarroll, John T. Lambert and William T. Entwistle. With the report that a fourth man has tossed his hat in the ring. It is a merry battle and the favoritism of each pretty evenly divided. Any of the men now in the field if elected to the place they seek would do honor as the official head of this live bustling secret order.
